Explore Emotions Super Doll

For more information, ideas, inspiration and to watch a video, please visit www.roylco.com/product/R49591.

This doll is an emotional super hero! Use it to encourage students to talk about their own moods and emotions. This cuddly doll comes with lots of different Velcro® facial features, allowing you to decide what the doll is feeling. Store unused facial features on the doll's cape. There are two buttons on the doll. The first button plays a random sound that corresponds to one of sixteen emotions. Children use that sound for inspiration when creating facial expressions. If they need to be reminded of the sound or they want to show a friend or the teacher the expression they made they can press the second button to hear the sound again.

For a student having a difficult time expressing themselves verbally, this doll offers a way to explore emotions in a tactile and visual way. Students can express how they are feeling by superimposing their emotions on the doll and showing on the doll's face how they feel. Changing the doll's emotions exercises fine motors skills.

Ideas: Gather students in a large group. Press button #1 to hear a random emotion sound and ask students to connect the sound with an emotion. Discuss why students connect the sound with a specific emotion. Finally, ask students to create the emotion on the doll's face. Tip: Press button #2 to hear the sound repeated.

Use the doll with our Roylco R49592 Explore Emotions Photo Cards. Students can discuss the emotion they see on the card and replicate the emotion on the doll's face.
